Even after the pandemic, global political leaders continue to promote the Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccines. But Slovakia's Prime Minister Robert Fico is an exception.

In a recent parliamentary speech, Fico said that deaths from various cardiovascular events in his country have increased because of COVID-19 vaccines. Fico noted that these vaccines are "experimental" and "unnecessary."

Fico's speech came within weeks after he announced that his political party would not support strengthening the powers of the World Health Organization (WHO) in managing the fight against future pandemics.

He explained this decision by saying that "such nonsense could only have been invented by greedy pharmaceutical companies, which began to perceive the resistance of certain governments against mandatory vaccination."

Following the prime minister's announcement, the WHO admitted that the plans for its controversial global pandemic agreement are at risk of falling apart. Along with the proposed amendments to the International Health Regulations of 2005, the approval of this agreement would soon transform the WHO into a global health dictatorship. Fico says an investigation will shed light on COVID vaccine-related deaths

In his parliamentary speech, Fico discussed a number of key issues, such as the excess stock of expired vaccines Slovakia has and how much money has been wasted on buying them.

Fico also talked about Ursula von der Leyen, the president of the European Commission, and the secret text messages that she allegedly exchanged with Pfizer Chairman and CEO Albert Bourla. In 2020, Pfizer and BioNTech finalized a multi-billion euro vaccine deal and it is considered the largest purchase in the European Commission's entire history.

According to Fico, it will be almost impossible to "know the truth of what role the pharmaceutical companies played," adding that it will be very difficult to find out who was behind "the whole circus around COVID-19."

Fico believes the Slovak people need answers to important questions, such as why people were vaccinated with various experimental vaccines, and why all sorts of drugs were used on them. The Office of the Government Plenipotentiary was created to investigate these matters.

This office has been empowered to obtain crucial information from various Slovak institutions. Fico added that he is "absolutely convinced" that this investigation will shed light on the matter and that his government will soon be able to tell Slovak citizens what actually happened during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Fico also claimed previous governments in Slovakia were responsible for 21,000 excess deaths since 2020. He also accused them of using the pandemic to make a lot of money "on the unnecessary purchase of various medical equipment and vaccines."

Only time will tell if Fico's search for the answers and the Slovak investigation will reveal the truth, or at least some of the truth about the COVID-19 circus in the country. His admirable attempt will be a long, hard battle to find out the truth for his people.
